

METHOD OF REMOTELY MONITORING AN INTERNET SESSION

ABSTRACT

A method of remotely monitoring an Internet session includes participating in a first Internet session at a first Internet protocol (IP) address. Concurrent with the first Internet session, another Internet session is initiated at another IP address. Data associated with the first Internet session is automatically transferred to the other IP address via the other Internet session.

705270 " 2129260